

March Program

Weaving Software Overview by Doreen McLaughlin

There are several weaving software programs on the market, along with the WeaveDesign program, offered free on the PPWG website, written by Siv Nelson's husband, Bengt. I will be demonstrating the two programs I own, Fiberworks PCW and WeavePoint. If you have a different Windows-based program, and would like to demonstrate how to use it, please let me know so I can download the free trial version onto my laptop. If you are an Apple Computer user, and have Mac software you would like to show off to the guild, please bring your Apple laptop with the software to the meeting so that we can show that as well.
